BESPOKE PROJECTS

Varlin has carried out bespoke operations for various airlines and leasing companies over the years, here are just two examples

A Leading Leasing Company

The leasing company's parts were being stored randomly in warehouses in Stanstead. Varlin attended site, collated and listed all items digitally. Collected and relocated all stock to our warehouses in Somerset.

We designed and built a racking system to suit the stock. The stock was scrutinized in more detail for serviceability, copying and scanning Form1's and any other paperwork with the parts. Some parts were then sent for recertification. Varlin ran the store for five years, supplying parts as requested.

A change in the customers tax liabilities, required the operation to be relocated to Ireland. We packaged all parts, dismantled the racking and shipped all to Ireland, where our on-site team recreated the store with new spread sheets and locations for the parts.

A Major Airline

The airline required a store redesign, whilst keeping the operation running with minimal interruption.

Varlin designed a new system to meet this objective. The new system was then put into production. During production Varlin, systematically emptied the stock and transported to its warehouses in Somerset. Where Varlin supported the airline with parts on demand.

When the customer's distribution centre was cleared our team stripped out the old system and replaced it with the new. We gradually returned the parts to the airport and placed in the new system. There was minimum interruption of the daily running of the airline
